Congratulations! You Have Successfully Added a Bank Account

 XXXXXX has been successfully added to your PayPal account.

You can now withdraw funds electronically from your PayPal account and have these funds deposited into this bank account.

To use this bank account, you will need to confirm it. When you confirm your bank account, you increase the security of transactions on the PayPal network. An email with instructions that explain how to confirm this bank account has been sent to your email address.

It's Easy to Confirm Your Bank Account in the United States!

PayPal will make two small deposits into your bank account.

Check your bank statement or call your bank in 2-3 business days to find out the exact amounts of these two deposits.

Log in to your PayPal account, click the Confirm Bank Account link, and enter these amounts.

This process confirms that you are the owner of this bank account because only you have access to the deposit amounts sent by PayPal. This important security measure increases the safety of our payments network.

Adding this bank account does not automatically make it your primary bank account.

Marine Chronometer GUB VEB Glashutte Uhrenbetriebe #9322. This best sea chronometer is made in East Germany, and absolutely identical chronometer of the company A.Lange & Sohne. A. Lange & Sohne is a very old German watch manufacturer located in Glashutte, which is around 25 km south of Dresden, in the state of Saxony (not to be confused with two other states, Lower Saxony and Saxony-Anhalt). The company was founded in 1845. On May 8, 1945, Russian bombers destroyed Lange's main production workshops. (This raid occurred three months after the bombing of Dresden.) The company got back on its feet, but in 1948 the East German communist government nationalized the company. Its head, Walter Lange, fled to West Germany. In 1951 the trademark Lange ceased to exist as it and six other nationalized firms disappeared into a combine GUB Glashutte. The "A" in "A. Lange" is Adolph; the sohne were Richard and Emil. Emil's sons, Otto, Rudolf, and Gerhard took over the company when Emil died in 1922. Walter, born in 1924, is Rudolf's son. Nearly forty years after the Lange company disappeared, in 1990, with Germany reunited, Walter Lange, now 67, returned to Glashutte to found the company Lange Uhren GmbH and re-registered the trademark A. Lange & Sohne. He accomplished this with IWC's financial and logistical support. IWC (the most German of the Swiss watch companies) wanted to re-establish Germany's reputation in watchmaking. So, the instructions to Walter Lange were to do whatever it takes to make the finest watches in the world, as long as they are German. All details of the chronometer and wooden box is original ( see photo) The chronometer is in best condition. The Chronometer is adjusted by master and has an exact move -3 seconds in day. All detail of the chronometer original have a number 9322.
